Rockwood student places in art contest

ArtStamps, a fundraising company that turns student artwork into U.S. postage stamps and other products, announced the winners of its 2010 National Artistic Achievement Awards.

Sophia Ulett from Wild Horse Elementary in the Rockwood School District won the runner-up award, including a $50 cash prize, in the 10-12 age category.

ArtStamps honored 50 students in five age categories throughout the nation, who won based on the originality and creativity of their artwork.

To participate in the ArtStamps program and be eligible for next year's award, visit www.ArtStamps.com/fundraising or call 877- 4-A-STAMP.
